The World Wide Web enriches itself of a new Arts Blog (Music, Visual Arts and Literature) with the purpose to offer users a culture medium for personal cultural elaboration and interaction.

Musical Words is for all Music Literature and Art lovers that have the time and patience to write on any kind of argument, without any limitation and in respect of personal ideas.

Musicalwords.it hosts articles, essays, reviews, personal considerations, analysis and new ideas on the protean and prismatic world of Arts, with the unique opportunity to comment every single post.

Each collaboration will be published in English and Italian, guaranteeing a Global visibility.

Inside Music Word's space, will be sections dedicated to History of Music, Music Analysis and History of Music Theory, other than great performers of the past, CD reviews, Musical Education, compositional techniques and ideas for personal considerations.

For who wants to be informed about each publication, of a space that seems to be a rich and stimulating multimedia container, we offer a completely free periodical Newsletter. You can require it sending a simple email request to newsletter@musicalwords.it.

To collaborate actively with your publication instead you can contact us at headstaffeditor@musicalwords.it.
